BUSINESS CLUB HORUS,
Network of socially responsible companies that enables transfer of knowledge and good practice

Business Club HORUS is a club of socially responsible (to humans and nature) companies, finalists and awardees of the Slovenian Award for Social Responsibility. It connects recipients of recognitions and awardees of Horus awards.

Business Club was launched in 2015 in belief that now is the time to make a shared commitment to Slovenia and to help and strengthen CSR in other companies as well. Our wish is to cooperate with socially responsible companies and to upgrade our business with them. You are welcome to join us!

We strongly suggest to all companies, especially those who haven't yet applied for the Horus Award to do so and to join The Business Club Horus.

More of us will join CSR efforts, the sooner will Slovenia become socially responsible.

BUSINESS CLUB HORUS, Network of socially responsible and continuously learning companies

The mission

We want to change the perception of social responsibility in companies and with help of the companies spread social responsibility in public institutions and among public authorities and hence to young people in schools and kindergartens. With socially responsible action we want to influence on wider social effects, particularly on successfulness of Slovenia and good life of its inhabitants.

The vision

We want to become a business club with at least 100 active members within three years.

What do we do in the business club?

Companies, previous awardees and finalists of Slovenian Award for Social Responsibility Horus exchange knowledge, experience and best practices of our members and other companies, we associate with other socially responsible companies, and are trying to raise awareness about the importance of social responsibility of people, companies and other organizations.

In daily practice in our business and personal environments we expand the use of SR principles adopted at a global level in ISO 26000 (ISO 2010) and supported by documents of the European Union, which says that social responsibility is a way out of the current (global socio-economic) crisis (EU, 2011). These principles are: competence / official accountability, transparency, ethics, respect for stakeholders, respect for the rule of law, respect for international norms and respect for human rights.

How?

We operate within the Institute for the Development of Social Responsibility IRDO that coordinates our meetings and prepares educational content to upgrade our skills and business practices. We have a working presidency that prepares the plan of the work program for the current year, which is supplemented and verified by club members. Several times a year we organize meetings, and share good practices. We support the IRDO Institute in introducing national interest in relation to social responsibility at the state level.

How to become a member of the club?

All candidates who apply for the Horus Call at any time may become a member of the Business Club Horus. Joining the club is on voluntary basis. Members adopt a working program for the current year and agree on a mutual exchange of experience, knowledge and good practices. They attend training courses, which they organize in cooperation with IRDO Institute. Detailed functioning of the Business Club Horus is written in the rules of the club.

The condition for joining the club is already gained experience with social responsibility in the context of participation in the Horus Award Call. On behalf of the legal entities (companies) the members of the club are representatives of CSR, directors and/or leaders or proxies of the organizations. Membership in Horus Club is free of charge. Members encourage other companies to apply for the Horus Award, where possible. Club members are also hosts of events and meetings, where the host can present its own company and socially responsible practices to other members. Now there are more than 60 Horus finalists, awardees and the recipients of recognitions since 2009 included in membership of this club.

IRDO Institute:

- provides current insights and innovations in the field of social responsibility,
- enables the development and upgrading of social responsibility within organizations,
- organizes the mutual exchange of knowledge, insights, best practices among club members.

GOOD CSR PRACTICES HAVE NO LIMITS!
Connect, cooperate and help others to adopt good practices!
Thank you for your cooperation and action!

We are proud recipients of recognitions and awards in the field of social responsibility!
